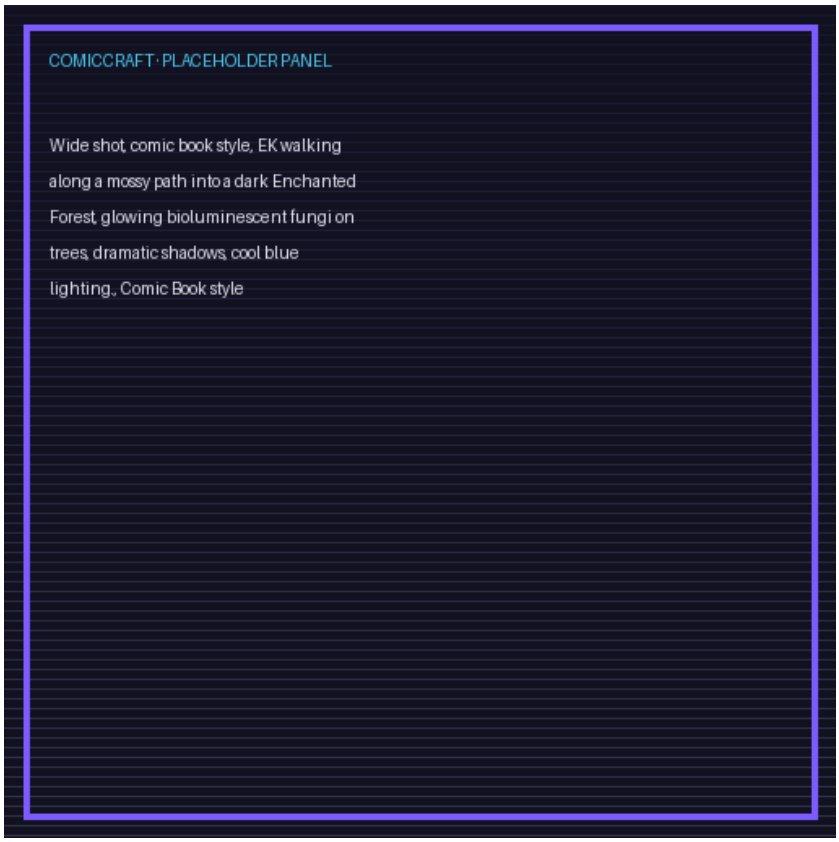
Main character: EK

5 panels

PANEL 01

The Entrance



SCENE

EK walks into the dense, foggy Enchanted Forest, his expression neutral.

CAPTION

The forest breathes in silence, waiting for those foolish enough to trespass.

NARRATION

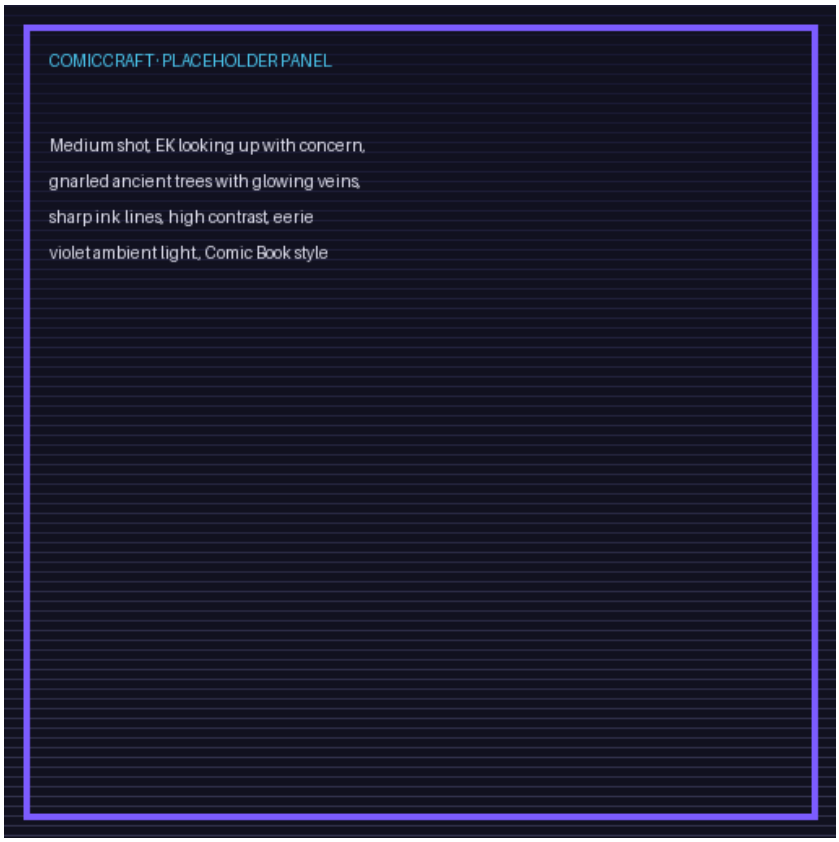
EK steps over the threshold, his boots sinking into the damp, glowing moss. He scans the thick fog with a gaze hardened by years of solitary travel.

DIALOGUE

? EK: I know you're watching. Show yourself.

PANEL 02

Unease



SCENE

EK stops as the trees appear to twist and lean toward him.

CAPTION

The ancient timber groans, twisting to bar his progress.

NARRATION

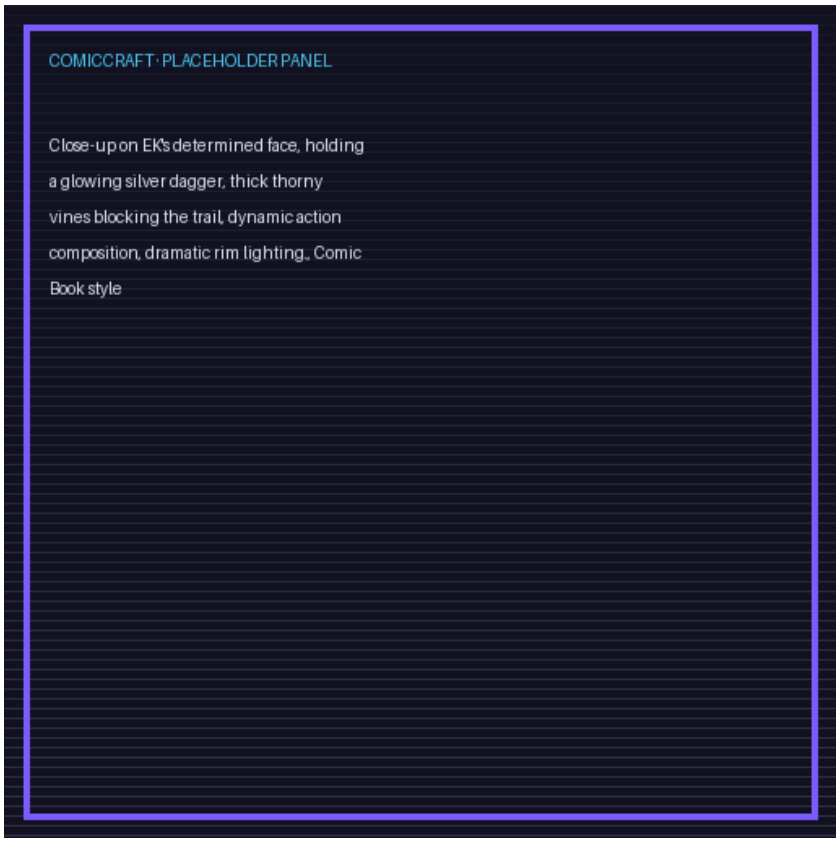
The path shifts beneath his feet as the trees lean inward, their bark pulsing with an unsettling, rhythmic violet light. EK freezes, his hand instinctively hovering near his belt.

DIALOGUE

? EK: You aren't just wood and leaf. You're hungry.

PANEL 03

The Obstacle



SCENE

A wall of sentient vines blocks EK's path, forcing him to draw a small silver dagger.

CAPTION

A wall of living thorns rises to meet him.

NARRATION

Spiked vines erupt from the earth, weaving a dense barricade that shudders with a heartbeat. EK draws his silver blade, the metal humming in resonance with the forest's dark magic.

DIALOGUE

? EK: If you want a fight, I'll give you one.

PANEL 04

The Choice

SCENE

EK cuts through the vines, revealing a shimmering, impossible portal behind them.

CAPTION

The barrier falls, revealing the impossible truth beyond.

NARRATION

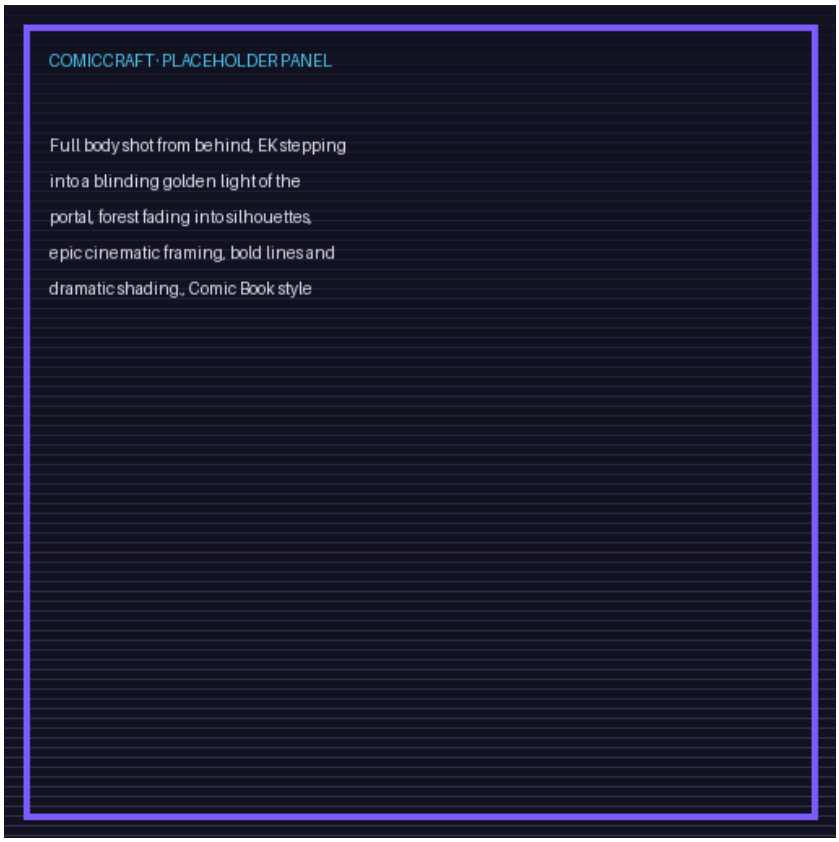
With a clean, decisive slash, the vines wither and recoil, exposing a swirling rupture in reality. The forest's unnatural silence is replaced by the low, hypnotic hum of the void.

DIALOGUE

? EK: So, the legends were right after all.

PANEL 05

The Departure



SCENE

EK steps into the portal, vanishing from the forest.

CAPTION

The traveler leaves the world of men behind.

NARRATION

Without a backward glance, EK steps into the blinding golden brilliance of the portal. His form dissolves into light, leaving the woods behind to rot in their own shadows.

DIALOGUE

? EK: Whatever lies on the other side... it has to be better than this.
